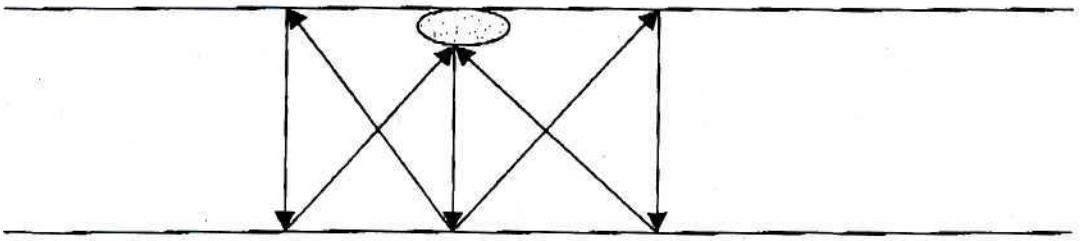
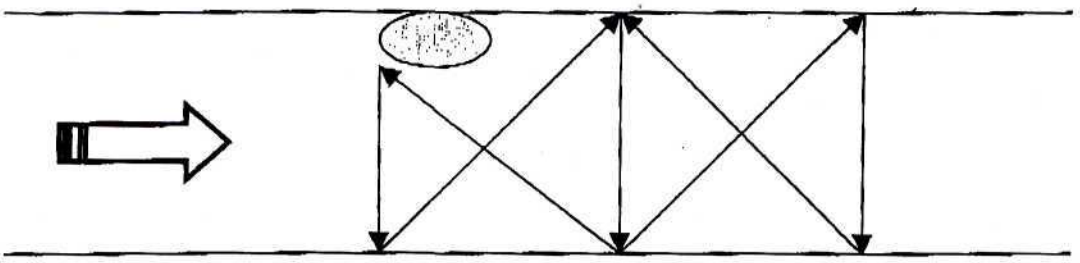
Monitoring pattern at slack water (centred on dredging)



Monitoring pattern with tide running (which side of dredging depends on ebb/flood)



The aims of thc monitoring are to ensure

- that dissolved oxygen concentrations in the vicinity of the dredging are not unacceptably low and
- that water clarity over at least half the channel is not unacceptably poor.