Meeting the Recovery: Challenge in Japan through Public-Private Partnerships

By Sam Tabuchi and Yu Namba

The challenges we face.....

At 2.46 pm on 11 March 2011 in Sendai, a large modern city with a population of over 1 million, located north of Tokyo, an earthquake struck. Thirty minutes later a Tsunami followed reaching a height at the local port of 7.2 meters. The water came in and then receded in a matter of a few minutes but the destruction of the adjacent shore area of the city was total. 704 people lost their lives, 51 are still missing and 2,273 were injured. 12, 425 buildings were totally destroyed and 26, 053 were partially destroyed with just half or less of the building remaining. This is just one area of a city affected by the earthquake: other towns in the North and the coastline stretching for 500 kilometers were more badly affected with 80 per cent of the towns and villages literally swept away and destroyed. Third Session of UNECE Team of Specialists on PPP

Dear Colleagues and Friends

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all of you for electing me as Chair of the UNECE Team of Specialists on PPP (TOS PPP).

It is an enormous honour to lead this Team of Specialists and its Bureau: we are progressively increasing in membership. At the Third Session of TOS PPP, we had over 200 participants from more than 35 countries, 10 international organisations, and 24 representatives from the private sector. My optimism for PPP development around the world - through the continued assistance by the UNECE PPP Initiative - grows day by day. Please click here for full article.

Ukraine and Republic of Korea push forward with Innovative PPP Initiatives

Public Private Partnership in Ukraine: The First Steps

By Irina Zapatrina and Yuriy Husyev

Viktor Yanukovich, President of Ukraine has singled out as the priority task of his country the modernization of the economy. In this regard the Government of Ukraine acknowledges the importance PPPs can play not only in helping attract new technologies into the public sector but even more importantly, in creating the conditions for higher economic growth in Ukraine. Please click here for full article.

Development of PPPs in Republic of Korea

By Jay Hyung Kim

The public-private partnership (PPP) market in the Republic of Korea has continued to grow as the government has actively promoted PPP projects as an alternative method to supplement public investment. The government has tried to allocate strategically its limited resources and therefore has encouraged the role of the private sector where its efficiency and creativity can be effectively utilized. With the strong initiative of the government, PPP projects have contributed to providing infrastructure facilities and public services where large-scale investments were urgently needed for national economic development and growth. In 2008, PPP investment in the social overhead capital (SOC) sector amounted to KRW3.7 trillion, about 18.4% of the total public and private investment in SOC; in 1995, it was merely KRW0.4 trillion when the PPP program was first introduced. Linked-In Commentaries on UNECE International PPP Centre of Excellence

The UNECE Team of Specialists on PPP, through the UNECE PPP Initiative, is engaged in the process of increasing the capacity of governments to develop their PPP capabilities. The proposed UNECE International PPP Centre of Excellence has a specific mandate to become a one-stop-shop to assist Member States in achieving this goal. In view of its global perspective, the secretariat thought it necessary to reach out to various stakeholders for comments through a number of modern platforms such as LinkedIn, Facebook and Youtube. In the past few weeks, LinkedIn participants have posted a number of interesting comments and suggestions about the idea of the UNECE International PPP Centre of Excellence, which we will be reproducing through this link. UNECE PPP Readiness Taskforce – Roster of PPP Experts

As most of you are aware, following the launching of the UNECE PPP Initiative in April 2011, the UNECE work on PPPs is being expanded in order to take more capacity building activities. In order to facilitate the organisation of technical assistance, including undertaking national PPP readiness assessments, especially in countries getting started in PPPs, it was agreed to compile a Roster of PPP experts from within the UNECE extended network, who are willing to dedicate their time and skills towards the UNECE activities in the field of PPPs.

The response received from the network to join the roster of PPP experts was very encouraging, and the secretariat will shortly compile the UNECE PPP Roster and will post it on the UNECE website. Please click here for a more detailed outline of the UNECE national PPP readiness assessment process.

The secretariat would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your interest in serving on the roster. Those of you who would like to join the UNECE PPP Roster are encouraged to contact the secretariat.
