

Kjartan SORENSEN

Regional Coordinator, Business Facilitation Programme, UNCTAD

Kjartan Sorensen has managed investment and trade climate reform projects in North and sub-Saharan Africa for more than twelve years. From 2009 to 2014 he lived in Morocco, Burkina Faso and Tanzania working for UNCTAD overseeing the implementation of eRegulations, an effort to bring transparency to and simplify investment-related procedures and eRegistrations systems to automate business and investor registrations in more than 10 countries in Africa.

Now based in New York, Kjartan currently coordinates the East African Community Trade Facilitation project to assist Governments in implementing trade information portals to simplify regulations for the import, export and transit of goods. A Danish citizen, Kjartan grew up in France and holds a BA in Economics and Political Science from McGill University in Canada and a MSc in International Development and Business from Roskilde University in Denmark.
