Human Rights to Water and Sanitation

Special Rapporteur on the human right to safe drinking water and sanitation
Legal basis for the human rights to water and sanitation

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights (art. 25(1)), 1948
- International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (art. 11), 1966/76
- Convention on the Rights of the Child (art. 24(2)(h))
- Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (art. 14(2)(h))
- Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (art. 18 (2)(a))
- General Comment 15, 2002
- UN General Assembly and Human Rights Council resolutions 292/64 and 15/9, respectively
- Human Rights Council resolution 24/41 affirmed the normative content of the HR to water and sanitation
What is the Human Right to Water and Sanitation?

The human right to water entitles everyone, without discrimination, to sufficient, safe, acceptable, physically accessible and affordable water for personal and domestic use.

The human right to sanitation entitles everyone, without discrimination, to have physical and affordable access to sanitation, in all spheres of life, which is safe, hygienic, secure, socially and culturally acceptable, which provides privacy and dignity.
Normative content of the rights to water and sanitation

AVAILABILITY: sufficient and continuous for personal and domestic uses; within immediate vicinity

QUALITY: safe for consumption and other personal uses; hygienically and technically safe to use

ACCESSIBILITY: to everyone without discrimination, within the immediate vicinity

AFFORDABILITY: price must be affordable for all without compromising the ability to secure other essential necessities guaranteed by human rights

ACCEPTABILITY: culturally acceptable and gender-specific, and to ensure privacy and dignity
Striking Inequalities in Access: Urban-Rural

Improved water: 96% vs. 84%. Improved sanitation: 92% vs. 58%
Averages mask inequalities

Access to piped water on premises depends on location and wealth, as shown in Kazakhstan.
Different approaches to improving access: Entrenching inequalities, or addressing inequalities?
