For each type of activity listed in appendix I that does require a final decision, please indicate the legal requirements in your country that identify what is regarded as the “final decision” to authorize or undertake such an activity (art. 6 in conjunction with art. 2, para. 3), and the term used in the national legislation to indicate the final decision in the original language:

According to Italian legislation EIA procedure is legally binding, separate and self-standing procedure without which the project cannot be authorized and consequently cannot be realized. EIA procedure is carried out by the designated environmental authority which concludes the assessment procedure with an EIA decision which represents an autonomous and legally binding act that shall be acquired before the final decision (development consent).

Development consent procedure is carried out by the competent authority, which is different from EIA authority, designated according to the type (sector of activity) of the project: e.g. Ministry for Economic Development for Annex I energy infrastructures, Ministry for Infrastructures and Transports for Annex I transport infrastructures, etc.. The authority which grants the authorization to proceed with the project with a legally binding act, takes into account the EIA decision and the conditions attached thereto.

I.29. Is there any provision regarding post-project analysis in your national EIA legislation (art. 7, para. 1)?:

- (a) No
- (b) Yes (please specify the main steps to be taken and how the results of it are communicated): Article 28 of the Legislative Decree 152/2006 (Environmental Code) provides specific arrangements for the monitoring of the project, of the environmental effects and of the compliance of all the conditions attached to the EIA decision. The whole activities carried out after the EIA decision (EIA follow up) are put in place in order to timely identify unforeseen adverse impacts and to allow the competent authority to be able to take appropriate corrective measures.

The monitoring arrangements, the results of the monitoring as well as any corrective measures taken, shall be made available on the websites of the competent authority, of the developer and of the Environmental Agencies involved.

The provisions described above represent an integral part of the EIA procedure and they should also apply to EIA in a transboundary context.
