The main classifications used in SBR

• General classification of types of economic activities (GCEA)
  It allows to define primary and secondary economic activity of enterprises. It complies with international standards (harmonized with the classifier NACE, which is applied in the EU)

• Classification of enterprise size by the number of employees (CES)
  It allows you to determine the size of the enterprise on the number of employees:
  100 - Small businesses (0 to 100), 200 - Medium-sized enterprises (101 to 250), 300 - Small businesses (over 250 employees)

• Classification of economy sectors (CSE)
  It is used to classify an enterprise to a particular sector of the economy in accordance with the recommendations of the 2008 SNA.

• Classification of forms of ownership (CFO)
  It allows to distribute enterprises by types of ownership: state, private, foreign.

• Classification of organizational and legal forms (COLF)
  Used to determine the legal form of legal entities in accordance with the legislation of Kazakhstan.
