Working Party on Road Transport
(Ninety-fifth session, 16-19 October 2001, agenda item 3)

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE AETR AGREEMENT

Possible solutions for the introduction of Annex 1B into the AETR

Addendum 1

Transmitted by the European Commission (EC)

SOLUTION 1

Consists of including the following text as an introduction to the AETR's Appendix.

“For the purposes of this Appendix :

1. The terms mentioned below in the left column have to be replaced by the corresponding ones mentioned in the right column :

TERMS		SIGNIFICATIONS IN THE AETR
Member States	Replaced by	Contracting Parties
MS		CP
Annex		Appendix
Appendix		Sub-appendix
Regulation		Agreement

GE.01-

Community		AETR
-----------	--	------

2. The references made to the legal texts mentioned below in the left column have to be replaced by the corresponding ones mentioned in the right column:

Legal texts		New references ¹
Council Regulation (EEC) n° 3820/85	Replaced by	AETR
Council Directive n° 92/6/EEC		ECE 89
Council Directive n° 92/23/EEC		ECE 54
Commission Directive n° 95/54/EC		ECE 10
Council Directive n° 76/114/EEC		It is suggested to check if there is really no equivalence at UN level (2).
Council Directive n° 97/27/EEC		It is suggested to check if there is really no equivalence at UN level (3).

3. The measurement of distances, as stated in I, u) (page 8) of the Appendix is done in accordance with the provisions of Council Directive n° 97/27/EC of 22 July 1997, as last amended, OJEC, L 233, 25/08/1997 (4).

4. The vehicles identification, as stated in I, nn) (page 10) of the Appendix is done in accordance with the provisions of Council Directive n° 76/114/EEC of 18 December 1975, OJEC n° L 24, 30/01/1976 (5).

5. The whole security requirements have to respect the provisions laid down in the Council Recommendation n° 95/144/EC of 7 April 1995, on common information technology security evaluation criteria (ITSEC), as last amended, OJEC n° L 93, 26/04/1995.

6. The protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data is done in accordance with the provisions of Council Directive n° 95/46/EC of 24 October 1995, as last amended, OJEC n° L 281, 23/11/1995 (6).

7. The requirement 172 is deleted (7).

1 To be checked by the UN services.

2 To be checked by the UN services.

3 To be checked by the UN services.

4 If there is no ECE equivalent legal text. To be checked by UN services.

5 If there is no ECE equivalent legal text. To be checked by UN services.

6 The UN legal texts dealing with protection of personal data do not offer a protection comparable to the one existing at EU level. There is therefore no possibility to replace the Directive 95/46 by a reference to UN legal texts.

7 It is advised, in order to not renumber the total Appendix with all the consequences that it could have, to keep the number 172 and to write “[reserved]” in the core of the text.

8. The requirement 174 is changed as follows:

“the distinguishing sign of the Contracting Party issuing the card. The distinguishing signs of the non EU Contracting Parties are those of the Vienna Convention” (8).

The reference to the EU flag with the letters “MS” meaning “Member States” in requirement 178 is replaced by the letters “CP” meaning “Contracting Party”, the flags of the non EU Contracting Parties being optional.

9. The requirement 181 is changed as follows:

“After consulting the ECE Secretariat, Contracting Parties may add colours or markings, such as security features, without prejudice to the other provisions of this Appendix”.

10. The requirement 278 is changed as follows :

“Interoperability tests are carried out by a unique and competent body” (9).

11. The requirements 291 to 295 are deleted (10).

12. In Appendix 9, 1, 1-1, the introduction sentence is modified as follows :

“The type approval procedure for a recording equipment (or component) or tachograph card is based on:”

8. The best thing to do is to make a reference to the Vienna Convention on Road Traffic dealing especially with the distinguishing signs as it concerns EU Member States as well as the other AETR Contracting Parties. But a check has to be made to ensure that there is no counter-indication between the Appendix and the Vienna Convention (example: what about UK? Is that UK in both, or UK and GB? etc...).

9 On this particular point, attention is drawn on the fact that a reference to any organization having the power to decide which laboratory to choose (i.e. the European Commission or any internal UN committee), or to the laboratory itself, would not be a good thing. At the time the amended AETR will enter into force, a laboratory will already be designated in EU because the digital tachograph will already exist. Therefore, as this laboratory has to be a unique laboratory taking care of the interoperability tests, there is no other solution for the other Contracting Parties than to let EU choose this laboratory. EU cannot wait for the amendments of the AETR. In other words, at first glance, the feeling could be that it would be better to be as specific as possible in the legal text. But understanding of the tachograph market is that industry will easily adapt without needing a legislative intervention at international level to say which laboratory will be in charge of the interoperability tests. At EU level, it is mainly because France and Germany wanted to make sure that the laboratory will be independent, that they asked the Commission to take the responsibility of these technical operations.

10 It is advised, in order not to renumber the total Appendix with all the consequences that it could have, to keep the numbers 291, 292, 293, 294 and 295 and to write “[reserved]” in the core of the text in front of each of them.

SOLUTION 2

Consists of integrating the whole Annex, amended, in the AETR Agreement.
