

Biography: Lieselot MARINUS

Lieselot Marinus started working for the European Sea Ports Organisation (ESPO) in 2004. ESPO represents all seaports of the European Union and ensures they have a clear voice in Brussels. As a policy advisor Lieselot Marinus is responsible for port & transport policy, intermodal files, marine affairs and security issues; she coordinates ESPO's Intermodal and Logistics Committee, Port Governance Committee, Marine Affairs and Security Committee and Legal Committee.

Before working with ESPO, Lieselot Marinus worked as a trainee for a Member of the Transport Committee of the European Parliament, which made her familiar with European transport policy and the practical functioning of the European Institutions in Brussels.

After obtaining a Masters in law at the University of Antwerp, Lieselot successfully finalised a Postgraduate diploma in international law at the University of Brussels.

Lieselot was born in Antwerp, Belgium, in 1979 and currently lives in Brussels.