

Workshop: Practical Aspects of Transition Towards 100% Renewables (round-table)

Organizers: CAN EECCA (Climate Action Network Eastern Europe, Caucasus and Central Asia)

Target group: Open to all participants. Mayors, businesses and ministries representatives will be invited.

Transition towards clean energy is necessary to prevent dangerous effects of climate change and give a hope to the most vulnerable countries. And it is already obvious for many. Cities, businesses, churches and many others are committing to 100% renewable energy transition and some are already successfully fulfilled their promises. 55 countries and 137 corporations have set the 100%RE goal by 2050. Commitment itself is an ambitious step, but what are the practical steps when the target is set? This roundtable will give the opportunity for businesses and governments to talk about the experience and reality check with the 100%RE champions that made their way toward this ambitious goal. What were the first steps? What obstacles did they meet on the way? What was the easiest in this transition?
