14th General Population Census and General Housing Census
21 October 2001
(Article 27, Law No. 144, 17 May 1999)

Household Form

What is a Census?
A Census is a statistical survey that is carried out every 10 years to count the country's population and collect information on households, individuals, accommodation at local and national level. The information gathered is indispensable for making decisions that involve all citizens and for planning services used on a daily basis.

Who must answer?
Anyone who lives in Italy, either permanently or on a temporary basis, and all persons who do not live in Italy but are present at the time of the Census.

Who fills in the Household Form?
The Household Form must be filled in, with reference to 21 October 2001, by the Holder on the Household Form (in other words, the individual to whom the Household Form is addressed at the Italian Population Register - Anagrafe) or, if this is not possible, by another individual who usually or temporarily resides in the accommodation or who happens to be present on the date of the Census. It must be filled in:
- for each household member who regularly resides in the accommodation (even if absent on the day of the Census);
- for each individual who does not regularly reside in the accommodation but lives there temporarily (even if absent on the day of the Census);
- for each individual who happens to be in the accommodation on the day of the Census.

N.B. If more than one household lives together in the same lodging on a regular basis, each of them must fill in a Household form.

The term household refers to:
A group of people, bound by marriage, kinship, affinity, adoption, guardianship or by emotional ties, who are partners and live in the same Municipality (even if not registered in the Population Register residing in that Municipality).
A household may also be composed of one individual only.

What does the Household Form contain?
- Household members: List A - Individuals who usually reside in the accommodation (page 2)
- List B - Individuals who DO NOT usually reside in the accommodation (page 2)
- Section I - Information on the dwelling (pages 4 and 5)
- Section II - Information on the individuals who usually reside in the accommodation (from page 6 to page 35).
- Section III - Information on individuals who DO NOT usually reside in the accommodation (from page 36 to page 37).

Pages 1 and 2 will remain with the Municipal Office, List A will be used to update the Population Register. The remaining pages of the Household Form, containing Sections I, II, and III, will therefore reach the ISTAT Office without information (surname and name) that identifies the individuals who live in that accommodation.

To start with
- Each member of the household who usually resides in the accommodation must fill in a line in List A, starting with the Householder and proceeding in order with the spouse or the cohabiting partner, unmarried children (from the eldest to the youngest), married children and their households, other relatives or relocations of the Holder, other cohabitants that are part of the household.
- Each individual who DOES NOT usually reside in the accommodation must fill in a line in List B.

Notes for filling in the form:

1. Sections I, II and III of the Household form are divided into "points" that include various questions. Carefully read each single question, including any notes that are highlighted or in parenthesis.

2. This Household form is prepared for reading by an optical "Scanner" that does not recognize some colors, therefore you are kindly requested to use only black or blue ballpoint pen to write in the boxes. DO NOT use pencil nor red or green color pens, nor felt tip pens.

3. If a question does not concern you (e.g. because it is only addressed to children that are less than 6 years of age) do not cross any box, nor make any type of signs or marks whatsoever.

4. For each question cross only one box, except where specifically indicated that more than one answer is allowed.

5. For most of the questions it is sufficient to mark the box with a cross that corresponds to your condition. (N.B. it is very important that the other boxes are not marked!)

   E.g.:

   Holder's spouse .................................. X

   If you erroneously mark a wrong answer, black out the relative box and mark the box that corresponds to your response with a cross.

6. For the other questions, write the numbers or words as clearly as possible, in small print and place only one letter in each one of the boxes. The letters must be detached one from the other. You are kindly requested to refrain from writing outside the spaces allotted.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR KIND COLLABORATION
Dear Sir or Madam,

The National Institute of Statistics is conducting its 14th General Population Census and General Housing Census, as established by article 37 of Law No. 144 dated 17 May 1999, which is considered by the National Statistics Program to be one of the most important statistics surveys in our Country.

A Census is carried out in most countries of the world to count the inhabitants and obtain information on their social and economic position. In Italy a Census is carried out every ten years with the scope of gaining a more precise and detailed view of the Italian reality throughout the territory. The aim of the General Population Census is to count the resident population and update the municipal register. The purpose of General Housing Census, which also includes the building Census, is to obtain information on the number and characteristics of these premises.

The information obtained will make it possible to put together a wealth of information that is of fundamental importance, for both the collectivity and for public workers, when planning and projecting activities and offering services, as well as to the Municipality and sub-Municipality.

You are kindly requested to carefully complete the Household Form, after having read the attached instructions.

A surveyor assigned by the Municipal Census Office will come to your home to pick up the questionnaire after completion.

We would like to ensure you that Istat is bound to use this information only and exclusively for statistical purposes. This information cannot be provided to other organizations or persons and are published in tabular format in order to prevent any reference to individuals.

Furthermore, you are reminded that the information obtained by this survey is protected under the regulations that govern the secrecy of statistics established by Legislative Decree No. 322/89, and is subject to the provisions of the privacy act under Law 675/96 and subsequent changes and additions. Consequently, all the operators and public offices involved in the Census operations are to observe secrecy and are not allowed to make use of data for non statistical purposes.

In accordance with Law No. 675/96, Istat is the owner of the survey and the Director of the Department for Social Statistics is the person in charge. Furthermore, the Directors of the Provincial Census Offices, the Chambers of Commerce and the Directors of the Municipal Census Offices are each responsible for their sector.

For further clarification please feel free to contact our Toll Free Number 800-294 294, available every day from 8.00 a.m. to 10.00 p.m. The calls are to be made by a fixed telephone system.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your household in advance for the collaboration and assistance provided to make this event a success.

The President of Istat
Luigi Biggeri

SECTION I - INFORMATION ON THE DWELLING

1. Property

Question 1.1
- Cross answer 1 if the dwelling is the exclusive or shared property of at least one member of the household. Also cross answer 1 if you are living in the dwelling in fulfillment of tenancy rights, or other rights (e.g. lease, accommodation), or when subject dwelling is being redeemed, or because of bare ownership, and also if the owner rents part of the dwelling while still living there.
- Cross box 2 or 3. If the dwelling is not the property of any of the persons residing there, but is rented (box 2) or occupied in some other way (box 3), that is, free of charge or in exchange for services.

Question 1.2
- Regardless of the answer provided for question 1 indicate who, amongst those listed, is the owner of the dwelling. If none of these is the owner, cross box 8. If ownership is shared amongst various persons (private persons, companies, etc.) indicate the owner with the largest percentage of ownership. In case of bare ownership, refer to the owner of the bare property.

2. Dwelling structure

Question 2.1
Specify the total number of rooms in the dwelling, including those with an independent entrance that are functionally part of the main building. Do not count bathrooms, kitchens, kitchenettes, service areas and accessways. When counting, remember that a large room, divided into various functions, or separated into two or more areas by arches or dividing furniture, must not be counted as one room but as various rooms.

Rooms with a kitchen area used for various purposes must also be counted.
- The term room refers to an area that receives direct light from the outside, with space for one bed and for a person to move in. For example, bedrooms and living rooms that meet these characteristics are rooms. Kitchens, kitchenettes, service areas and bathrooms are not to be counted as rooms, even if they meet these characteristics.
- The term rooms with external entrance refers to those rooms that have a separate entrance from the others, but are still part of the main house even if physically separated from it. However, these rooms are a complementary part of the house and are used by the same persons that live therein.
- The term accessories refers to cellars, attics, garages, etc., in other words, premises that are actually used on a permanent basis to service the house even if they do not belong to the same building.

• The term service area refers to the area for entering rooms, toilets, bathrooms, as well as storerooms and such. Therefore, entrances, internal stairways, corridors, bathrooms, locker rooms, storerooms, etc., are considered service areas.
• The term kitchen refers to a room (or part thereof) equipped with a system for cooking food and a place in which to wash dishes, that is used for this purpose regardless of the fact that it is also used to eat in, sleep in, or other activities. There are three types of kitchens, depending on the size and the use made of the room where the cooking is done:
  a) kitchen with the characteristics of a room: this is a "traditional" kitchen the size of a regular room (see definition), used and equipped mainly for cooking and eating.
  b) kitchenette: this is a small kitchen, smaller than the minimum requirements for a room, which most of the time is just sufficient for arranging the necessary equipment.
  c) kitchen corner in a room that serves various purposes: in large rooms this area is usually used as an eating area or small dining room, there is an area in which to install kitchen equipment. The main characteristic of a room arranged in this manner is not that of a kitchen, but that of a room used for various purposes.

Question 2.2
• Specify how many of the rooms indicated in the previous question are for professional use (such as professional studio, office of a self-employed worker, artisan's laboratory, or any type of room that is used exclusively as a place in which to practice a profession or job).

Question 2.3 (see question 2.1 for definitions)
• If the dwelling, or room with a independent entrance, does not have any type of kitchen facilities then answer questions a), b), and c) by indicating "0" (zero) or "No". Point 3 asks whether the house has a kitchen corner, obviously this will have been already counted as part of the rooms under question 2.1.

Question 2.4 (see question 2.1 for definitions)
• When counting levels do not include any house accessories (like cellars, garages and attics) and rooms with an independent entrance. However, intermediate levels and similar, built inside the dwelling, constitute a separate level and must be counted as such. The number of levels must not be confused with the number of floors for the building in which the dwelling is located. Place a cross in box 1 when the dwelling only spreads out horizontally; cross the boxes when the dwelling reaches upwards (as in the case of "tower" like dwellings that are typical in some historic centers, or dwellings where intermediate floors have been built.

Question 2.5 (see question 2.1 for definitions)
• Indicate the number of square meters (rounded and without decimals) of the internal surface of the dwelling. In other words, the surface of the floors not counting the walls and excluding the service areas. If the dwelling spreads on various levels, or also includes an external entrance, count the surface of all parts.

3. Potable water and sanitary equipment

Question 3.1 (more than one answer is possible)

Specify the source of the potable water in the dwelling, both inside and in rooms with a separate entrance, or whether only non-potable water is available. If the dwelling has more than one water source, list them all.
- If the water comes from a source other than an aqueduct or well, for example, an indirect source such as a regularly filled tank, then place a cross in box 3.
- If the dwelling only has non-potable water, place a cross in box 4.

Question 3.2

- The term bathub and shower refers to those systems that are permanently connected to both a plumbing and a drainage system, located inside the house or in the rooms with a separate entrance.
- When answering, please note that a bathtub and shower that are located in the same room but are independent, must be considered as two systems and that a bathub with an incorporated shower must be considered as one system.

Question 3.3

- The term toilet refers to a WC permanently connected to a plumbing and a drainage system located in the house or in the rooms with separate entrance.

Question 3.4

- Available hot water (for bathroom and kitchen use) refers to water heated by a fixed system and not by burners or other heating systems.

Question 3.5

- Answer "Yes" if the hot water is supplied by the same system used to heat the house. Answer "No" if the hot water is provided by a separate system, such as a gas or electric water heater.

Question 3.6 (more than one answer is possible)

- Answer only if the system that produces hot water is separate from the heating system.

4. Heating system

Question 4.1 (more than one answer is possible)

- A centralized system refers to a system that heats all the apartments in the same building, but is located outside the premises like, for example in one of the service areas of the building (cellar, basement, etc.). A system connected to a remote city heating system is also considered centralized.
- An independent system refers to a system that heats a single house and is normally located inside or nearby the house (for example, the boiler could be located in a special internal area or on the balcony/terrace; solar panels could be located on the roof, and so forth), and is independently operated.
- A fixed individual system refers to a system that is not connected to the centralized system or regular independent system, and which cannot be moved like, for example, fireplaces, individual gas heaters, heat pumps, electrical plates, coal, lpg, wood and LPG (liquidated petroleum gas) heaters.
- If there is no heating system, or there are mobile heaters like electric, gas or other types, place a cross in box 5 ("Does not have....").

Question 4.2 (more than one answer is possible)

- Specify the type of fuel or energy used to operate the heating system when the system is on. If the house is heated by remote heating or heat pumps, place a cross in box 9.

5. Work/interventions carried out on systems and structural and non-structural elements in the dwelling

This point deals with the maintenance, repair, restoration, and restructuring carried out on the dwelling over the past 10 years by both current and past residents. Small repairs and work carried out on the building that houses the apartment, must not be taken into consideration.

Question 5.1

- Work and/or interventions on systems means the work carried out to maintain system efficiency (plumbing, bathroom, heating, electrical, etc.), to renew systems, change them and so forth. Small repairs must not be taken into consideration.

Question 5.2

- Work and/or interventions of structural elements means the work carried out to consolidate, restore or renew vertical structures. Substitute floors or facing, expand or reduce volumes, etc.
- If the answer to question 5.2 is yes, specify in question 5.3 the year in which this work was carried out. If the work is still underway then indicate "2001".

Question 5.4

- Work or interventions carried out on non-structural elements refers to the work carried out to fully or partially substitute floors, restore plaster, substitute internal partitions, and so forth.

6. Car Park

Question 6.1, 6.2, 6.3

Indicate whether there is at least one personal and guaranteed parking area available for persons living in the house, either inside the building or nearby. Availability means that the parking area can be used (at any time) because it is owned, rented, provided free of charge, etc.
- Private box refers to a closed premises suitable for storing an automobile and used for this purpose.
- Covered parking area refers to a personal reserved area situated in a covered area used to house various automobiles and used for this purpose. For example, condominium garages located underneath the building, garages situated in appropriate buildings, guarded public garages, and so forth.
- Open parking refers to a personal and reserved parking space located externally; for example, inside a courtyard, under a plaza or floor of a building, on the last uncovered floor of a building constructed for parking purposes, and so forth.

SECTION II - INFORMATION ON THE PERSONS WHO USUALLY RESIDE IN THE ACCOMMODATION

1. Demographic information

Question 1.1

- This question must not be answered by the Holder of the Household Form, or reference person (person on List A).
- Children are considered as such if acknowledged by the Holder and/or spouse or partner.
• Those who are children of the Holder’s spouse or partner only must place a cross in box 06 ("Son/daughter of spouse/partner only") even if the parent is deceased or does not currently live in the accommodation. Other persons who are relatives of the Holder’s spouse or partner only must place a cross in the box that corresponds to their level of kinship, even if the Holder’s spouse/partner no longer lives in this house.
  - The father/mother (or their spouse) of the Holder partner must place a cross in box 08 ("Holder’s mother/father-in-law")
  - Relatives of the Holder, the spouse, or the partner that are not mentioned in any of the answers (uncle of the Holder or spouse or partner, grandmother of the Holder or spouse or partner, cousin of the Holder or spouse or partner, etc.) who usually live in the accommodation must place a cross in box 16 ("Other relative of the Holder and/or spouse/partner").
  - Those persons who usually live in the accommodation and have no bonds of kinship with the Holder, the spouse or the partner, must place a cross in box 16 ("Other partner"). If these persons form a separate household, they must fill out another Household Form.
  - Anyone working for the household (servants, domestic help) and who usually lives in the accommodation must, if they form a separate household, fill in a Household Form.

  - Anyone who made a special request to become an Italian citizen, and this request was approved by the appropriate Authorities, must cross box 2 ("Acquired, for example, through marriage, naturalization"). Box 2 must also be crossed by anyone who has "automatically" become an Italian citizen. For example, box 2 must be crossed by:

14th General Population Census and General Housing Census
21 October 2001
(Article 37, Law No. 144, 17 May 1999)

Private Household Form

What is a Census?
A census is a statistical survey that is carried out every 10 years to count the country's population and collect information on families, individuals, houses on a national scale level. The information gathered is indispensable for making decisions that involve all citizens and for planning services used on a daily basis.

Who must answer?
Anyone who lives in Italy, either permanently or on a temporary basis, and all persons who do not live in Italy but are present at the time of the census.

Who fills in the Private Household Form?
The Private Household Form must be filled in, with reference to 21 October 2001, by the addressee on the Family Form (in other words, by the individual to whom the Family Form is addressed at the Registry) or, if this is not possible, by another individual who usually or temporarily resides in the house or who happens to be present at the date of the census. It must be filled in:
- for each family member who regularly resides in the house (even if absent on the day of the census);
- for each individual who does not regularly reside in the house but lives there temporarily (even if absent on the day of the census);
- for each individual who happens to be in the house on the day of the census.

N.B. If more than one family lives together in the same house on a regular basis, each must fill in the Family form.

The term family refers to:
A group of people, bound by matrimony, kinship, affinity, adoption, guardianship or by emotional ties, who are cohabitants and live in the same municipality (even if still not registered in the Registry for the population residing in that Municipality).
A family may also be composed of one individual only.

What does the Family Form contain:
- Family members: List A - Individuals who usually reside in the house (page 2)
- List B - Individuals who DO NOT usually reside in the house (page 2)
- Section I - Information on the house (pages 4 and 5)
- Section II - Information on the individuals who usually reside in the house (from page 6 to page 17)
- Section III - Information on individuals who DO NOT usually reside in the house (from page 18 to page 21)

Pages 1 and 2 will remain with the Municipal Office. List A will be used to make changes to the Registry of resident population. The remaining pages of the Family Form, containing Sections I, II, and III, will therefore reach the ISTAT office without information (Surname and Name) that identifies the individuals who live in that house.

To start with:
- Each member of the family who usually resides in that house must fill in a line in List A, starting with the addresses of the Family Form and proceeding in order with the spouse or the addressess cohabitant, unmarried children (from the eldest to the youngest), married children and their families, other relatives or relations of the addressee, other cohabitants that are part of the family.
- Each individual who DOES NOT usually reside in that house must fill in a line in List B.

Information on persons who DO NOT usually reside in the house
Notes for filling out the form:

1. Sections I, II and III of the Family form are divided into "points" that include various questions. Carefully read each single question, including any notes that are highlighted or in parenthesis.

2. This Family form is prepared for reading by an optical "Scanner" that does not recognize some colors, therefore you are kindly requested to use only black or blue ballpoint pen to write in the boxes. DO NOT use pencil, nor red or green color pens, nor felt tip pens.

3. If a question does not concern you (e.g. because it is only addressed to children that are less than 8 years of age) do not cross any box, nor make any type of signs or marks whatsoever.

4. For each question cross only one box, except where specifically indicated that more than one answer is allowed.

5. For most of the questions it is sufficient to mark the box with a cross that corresponds to your condition. (N.B. it is very important that the other boxes are not marked!)
E.g.: Address to spouse ...............................................................................Yes x

If you erroneously mark a wrong answer, black out the relative box and mark the box that corresponds to your response with a cross.

6. For the other questions, write the numbers or words as clearly as possible, in small print and place only one letter in each one of the boxes. The letters must be detached one from the other. You are kindly requested to refrain from writing outside the spaces allotted.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR KIND COLLABORATION
Dear Sir or Madam,

The National Institute of Statistics is conducting its 14th General Population Census and General Housing Census, as established by article 37 of Law No. 144 dated 17 May 1999, which is considered by the National Statistics Program to be one of the most important statistics surveys in our Country.

A census is carried out in most countries of the world to count the inhabitants and obtain information on their social and economic position. In Italy a census is carried out every ten years with the scope of gaining a more precise and detailed view of the Italian reality throughout the territory. The aim of the General Population Census is to count the resident population and update the municipal register. The purpose of General Housing Census, which also includes the building census, is to obtain information on the number and characteristics of these premises.

The information obtained will make it possible to put together a wealth of information that is of fundamental importance, for both the collectivity and for public workers, when planning and projecting activities and offering services, as well as to the municipality and sub-municipality.

You are kindly requested to carefully complete the Family Form, after having read the attached instructions.

A surveyor assigned by the Municipal Census Office will come to your home to pick up the questionnaire after completion.

We would like to ensure you that the Istat is bound to use this information only and exclusively for statistical purposes. This information cannot be provided to other organizations or persons and is published in table format so that it cannot be traced to any individual.

Furthermore, you are reminded that the information obtained by this survey is protected under the regulations that govern the secrecy of statistics established by Legislative Decree No. 322/89, and is subject to the provisions of the privacy act under Law 675/96 and subsequent changes and additions. Consequently, all the operators and public offices involved in the census operations are to observe secrecy and are not allowed to make use of data for non statistical purposes.

In accordance with Law No. 675/96, the person responsible for the Istat survey is the Director of the Department for Social Statistics. Furthermore, the Directors of the Provincial Census Offices, the Chambers of Commerce and the Directors of the Municipal Census Offices are each responsible for their sector.

For further clarification please feel free to contact our Toll Free Number 800-294 294, available each day from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. The calls are to be made by a fixed telephone system.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your family in advance for the collaboration and assistance provided to make this event a success.

The President of Istat
