BUILDING THE FUTURE WITH FORESTS

Ms. Susan Jones

Susan Jones, FAIA, LEED BD+C, architect, is founder and principal architect of atelierjones, an architecture firm founded in 2003 in Seattle. Ranked No. 7 in Design by Architect Magazine in 2017, the firm's design award winning work brings design excellence, research, and community engagement to create projects of reclamation: of forgotten urban sites and buildings; of waste or scrap materials to create renewing and beautiful architectural buildings and spaces. Over the past seven years, the firm has led groundbreaking work with Mass Timber in the US. Her book, Mass Timber | Design and Research was published in 2017 by ORO Editions. A native of Washington State, Susan became a Fellow of the AIA in 2010, is Affiliate Associate Professor at the University of Washington, and has been working for architects since she was sixteen.
