Evening with the Genevas historical Escalade

Transmitted by the Observer from Switzerland

Cé qu'è lainô, le Maitre dé bataille,
Que se moqué et se ri dé canaille,
A bin fai vi, pè on desande nai,
Qu'il étivé patron dé Genevoi.

The Observer from Switzerland has the pleasure to invite all delegates and their families who would like to know some of the famous history of Geneva to join the Swiss delegation for a glass of wine (or two...) on Wednesday, December 5th after work. We shall have a performance of some members of the famous Compagnie 1602, who will tell us about the very important local event of the Escalade. We shall have the honour to welcome Mr. Vladimir Petrovsky, Head of the Geneva Offices of the United Nations, at this event, who will give us a welcome address.

Programme

6h 30 p.m.: Individual trip by bus or walking to the place of the performance. Take the bus to "Cornavin" and change the bus for "RIVE" on the other side of the lake, which is served by different lines from the railway station Cornavin. The entrance to the place is marked on the map and is at the backside of the building at the Ferdinand Hodler Street. Performance will start about at 7 p.m. Take the chance to get some background information to the Escalade Event and to meet some of the members of the famous Compagnie 1602 in their historical uniforms.

For organisational reasons, delegates who would be interested in participating at this event are kindly requested to inform Mr. Ernst Winkler or another member of the Swiss Delegation before lunch of December 4, 2001.
