Irkutsk, Russian Federation, 13-14 September 2001

TOGETHER ON THE ROAD TO MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING, WELFARE AND PEACE

The participants of the 1st IRU Euro-Asian Road Transport Conference,

Acknowledging the richness of identities and approaches that exist in the region,

Considering that economic development and mutually beneficial trade exchange are essential tools to achieve mutual understanding, welfare and peace,

Being aware of the key role road transport is playing,

Acknowledging the existence of multiple barriers to road transport, from physical to institutional and legal,

Convinced that a progressive implementation of conditions conducive to the realisation of the full potential of road transport in serving society, economy and trade both at national and international level, should be created, in the interest of the development of road transport between the European and Asian Continents.

Invite

Governments to

- create, at national level, the necessary institutional, legal and administrative conditions and infrastructure allowing road transport to efficiently serve their national economies and trade exchange,
- work towards the creation of comprehensive and mutually beneficial bilateral and multilateral legal frameworks, in particular in international transport corridors, with harmonised and simplified procedures and practices based on models, which have already proven their advantages in this or other parts of the world, or to implement already existing ones, such as the TIR Convention, the ADR Agreement etc, developed within the framework of the UN/ECE, UN/ESCAP, or other relevant European or Asian institutions or bodies;
- support, consult and cooperate with their own road transport industries, as represented by branch associations.

The road transport operators to

- embark on best practices in the field of safety, environmental protection and adherence to the rules, setting the framework of market competition,
- constantly improve the quality of their services via training and use of best industry practices,
- actively participate in the activities of and support their branch association.

The representative road transport associations to

- promote the interests of their member operators with authorities in the framework of a strategic partnership with them,
- assist their members, and in particular the SMEs, by offering them additional services, such as information, advice and all kinds of associative support they may require from a genuine trade association, join/liaise with and actively participate in the activities carried out by the IRU.

The IRU to develop, in cooperation with member associations from the region, a short, medium and long-term strategy and measures to promote road transport and reduce/eliminate barriers in the Euro-Asian region;

step up efforts and devote resources to increase the added value and visibility of its involvement in the region, including via the expansion of the TIR system and the extension of the geographical coverage of its Training Academy;

work together and assist member associations in the region in creating structures and services that could benefit their members, the road transport operators.
