II. Justification

1. The information document and test report which may in certain cases be submitted to the technical service for the purpose of vehicle type-approval should be clearly linked to the vehicle manufacturer and not to the supplier of the stability function equipment in question.
 2. Although the information shall be supplied to the technical service by the vehicle manufacturer for the purpose of vehicle type-approval, it is also acceptable that the relevant information is in turn provided to the vehicle manufacturer by the system supplier.
