Strategic questions of a modal and thematic nature:
Road safety

Appointment and activities of the United Nations Secretary-General’s Special Envoy for Road Safety

Note by the secretariat

1. The severe impact of road traffic crashes on wellbeing and health of all people and huge economic consequences for societies, particularly in low- and middle-income countries1 prompted United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon to announce on 29 April 2015 the appointment of Mr. Jean Todt as his Special Envoy for Road Safety.

2. This documents contains (a) the mid-term assessment of the UNECE extrabudgetary project to support the UN Secretary General’s Special Envoy for Road Safety (UNECE E247 - Road Safety Project Phase I), as submitted to EXCOM for consideration at its meeting of 8 January 2016 and (b) the report of the Special Envoy to the Secretary General containing his activities in the period April – December 2015.
I. Mid-term assessment of the UNECE extrabudgetary project to support the UN Secretary General’s Special Envoy for Road Safety
1. Background

The severe impact of road traffic crashes on wellbeing and health of all people and huge economic consequences for societies, particularly in low- and middle-income countries prompted United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon to announce on 29 April 2015 the appointment of Mr. Jean Todt as his Special Envoy for Road Safety.

In August 2015, Special Envoy’s Action Plan was presented to the Secretary General. The plan rests on four major areas of Special Envoy’s proposed future involvement:

I. To promote global partnership to support the design and implementation of strategies and activities to improve road safety;

II. To advocate with governments, civil society and the private sector for the promotion of road safety, particularly in countries with a high level of road fatalities and injuries;

III. To participate in global and regional conferences and meetings on road safety;

IV. To advocate the accession to, and more effective implementation of United Nations road safety legal instruments.

Each area is further elaborated with concrete actions and anticipated deliverables. In general terms, the Special Envoy is expected to mobilize sustained political commitment towards road safety and share existing road safety good practices through his participation in global and regional conferences on road safety and direct contacts with high-level decision and policy makers throughout the world.

To address concerns voiced about the potential conflict of interest between the role of Special Envoy for Road Safety and his role as FIA President, from the first day of appointment, and to show the role of the Secretariat in this regard, special attention was paid to adhering to the United Nations rules and regulations, as elaborated in part 3.

To support the Special Envoy, the Project envisaged establishment of a secretariat to be placed in the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE). The broad purpose of the secretariat is to support the Special Envoy to fulfil his role and mandate, and providing him with adequate substantive support for his public appearances at relevant road safety events, with particular attention to the advocacy for accession and implementation of the UN road safety conventions and other legal instruments under the purview of the UNECE Inland Transport Committee, as well as to prepare briefings for his high level bilateral meetings, and other relevant tasks as required.

Approval from UNECE EXCOM of the XB project was required prior to the establishment of the Special Envoy XB-funded secretariat. In July 2015, at UNECE EXCOM’s seventy-ninth meeting, various delegates thanked the secretariat for the more detailed information that had been provided regarding the “Road Safety” project (Informal Document No. 2015/20/Rev.1) after the EXCOM meeting of 30 June and the submission of specific questions by some of the member States (see

1 Every year, some 1.3 million people are killed and up to 50 million people are injured on the world’s roads. Half of all road traffic deaths are among vulnerable road users, such as pedestrians, cyclists and motorcyclists. Road traffic deaths are also the leading cause of death for young people aged 15 to 29, and road traffic injuries are the eighth leading cause of death globally. Beyond human suffering, road traffic deaths and injuries impose significant economic and financial losses to societies. Low- and middle-income countries are the hardest hit. In 2010, the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed a Decade of Action for Road Safety. The goal of the Decade (2011-2020) is to stabilize and then reduce the forecast level of road traffic deaths around the world.
Various delegates also voiced continued concerns about the project, particularly regarding the nature of the specific activities, their costs and the coordination with other stakeholders; the terms of appointment for secretariat personnel that would support the Special Envoy; and potential conflicts of interest. After extensive discussion, the EXCOM approved, Phase I of the project, with the understanding that a project form for this Phase I would be prepared with budget details and concrete activities, and would be discussed and agreed upon at an informal EXCOM consultation. The project form for Phase I with budget details and concrete activities was prepared, discussed and agreed upon at an informal EXCOM consultation held at the end of July 2015. The Phase I of the project was to last 9 months (1 August 2015 - 30 April 2016). At the same time it was also agreed that Phase II could start already during Phase I taking into account the often lengthy duration of preparation, implementation and follow-up reporting and closure of road safety activities. The launch of Phase II however requires the approval by EXCOM as it was reiterated at its November session, which asked for a mid-term-report in writing.

2. Project budget, goals and the status of their achievement

The contribution from the FIA Foundation to UNECE for the Special Envoy XB project is €1,500,000. UNECE received half of this amount - €750,000 in September 2015. Request for the initial issuance of allotment advice of US$ 353,803 was addressed to the UNECE Executive office for the period until 31 December 2015, in conformity with the result-based cost plan for the same period. The remaining amount of the full contribution will cover the necessary budget for the period January – April 2016 and the Phase II of the project, subject to approval by the UNECE Executive Committee, as indicated in the Agreement. Expenditures in the reporting period (September – December 2015) are shown in Annex 2. The total budget approved by EXCOM for Phase I through April 30, 2016, is US$636,463, of which US$ 60,305 was spent as of 23 December 2015.

Road Safety Project Phase I has four expected results: (i) the secretariat of the Special Envoy on Road Safety is established; (ii) explored opportunities to establish a United Nations Fund for Road Safety, including hearing process; (iii) key road safety leaders and decision-makers in national governments prioritize road safety; and (iv) awareness about United Nations road safety legal instruments and road safety best practices has increased.

All four of the above Phase I goals have already been or are expected to be completed by 30 April 2016, as explained below.

Regarding the first expected result, the establishment of a reduced secretariat has been accomplished (reduced as originally a P4, a P3 and a G staff were envisaged, but following the EXCOM decision recruitment was launched only for the P4 and G staff); one project manager (P4) and one administrative support personnel (GS) were recruited, in December 2015, although with certain delay as explained below. The second planned activity – substantive support to the work of special envoy has been provided by the secretariat of the Sustainable Transport Division and logistical and IT support by the Office of the Executive Secretary, both until the establishment of the secretariat of the Special Envoy.

Vacancy announcement for recruitment of P-4 and G-5 staff for the Special Envoy secretariat were published at the end of August and tests and interviews of successful applicants were conducted during September. Correspondence with selected candidates commenced as soon as the recruitment process has been completed, however due to transfer from the previous information system in UNOG and ECE and the introduction of UMOJA, all human resources and other administrative procedures relevant for recruitment of selected staff were delayed. This development caused additional delay in start of the Special Envoy’s secretariat, and due to this unavoidable obstacle the XB secretariat has not been put in place as quickly as initially expected. Taking into account that selected staff could not make themselves immediately available, the secretariat started to operate from December 2015. Thus, in Phase I of the project, the reduced secretariat comprises of two new staff members (one P4, and one G5) within the UNECE Sustainable Transport Division.

Second expected result – explored opportunities to establish United Nations Global Fund for Road Safety has also been achieved. The secretariat prepared a document on modalities of trust fund establishment and administration in the UN. Another document under preparation by the secretariat outlines principles of functioning, governance structure and possible ways in which fund resources could be allocated and used. The secretariat stands ready to do further analysis during the first quarter of 2016 as guided by Member States.

Third expected result is that key road safety leaders and decision makers in national governments prioritize road safety. This ambitious goal has been high on the agenda of the Special Envoy and in concrete terms addressed by the Special Envoy through more than 50 meetings, consultations, and participation in various awareness raising initiatives. The long list of his high-level collocutors in mostly low- and middle-income countries with poor road safety situation as well as the content of these discussions demonstrates his commitment to achieve this objective. Progress toward prioritization of road safety in a country is a long and bureaucratic process and it has to be monitored and continuously sustained. This requires systematic follow-up, assistance to countries needing it, and capacity building to raise awareness. Below are only a few selected high-level meetings since the start of the Special Envoy’s appointment. For a full list of activities reference is made to the report of Special Envoy to the UN Secretary General.

- Meeting with Mr. Anthony Lake, Executive Director of UNICEF during the UN Road Safety Week around the issue of children and road safety.
- Meeting with Tunisian Transport Minister, Mahmoud Ben Romhane during which Mr. Romhane requested support in developing a new road safety strategy for the country.
- Discussion with President of France, His Excellency Mr. François Hollande, on road safety situation in France, as well as broader global road safety challenges.
- Several meetings with the High Commissioner of UNHCR, Mr. Antonio Guterres, to discuss how to decrease the number of road crash casualties involving UNHCR vehicles to zero. Discussed the value of road safety workshops for UNHCR dispatched collaborators to address the staff lives lost due to road traffic crashes and the possibility of extending such efforts across other UN agencies.
- Meeting with local UN Country Teams and government representatives leading road safety efforts in Malaysia, Myanmar and Thailand, as well as in Uganda and Kenya and in several countries in Latin America, such as Mexico, Brazil, Peru, Ecuador and Colombia. The Special Envoy used these visits to gather information and advocate for road safety, present the mission and objectives of the Special Envoy, encourage accession to the UN Road Safety conventions, and explore new opportunities for cooperation. The bilateral meetings were substantively supported by the briefing notes prepared by UNECE.
- The Special Envoy and representatives of civil society met during a Multi-Stakeholder Consultation, organized by UNECE secretariat, to exchange views and ideas regarding the Action Plan of the Special Envoy. A summary outcome document of key conclusions is available on the Special Envoy’s webpage. The meeting was an opportunity to clarify objectives, develop working methods and provide an open and transparent forum for multi-stakeholder engagement. Building a platform for joint collaboration between the Special Envoy and NGO community was also discussed. One of the requests by civil society representatives was that during his country visits the Special Envoy meets not only government officials, but also local road safety NGOs. It was agreed that the Special Envoy would notify NGOs in advance of country trips in order to facilitate this goal. The Special Envoy now meets local civil society representatives in the countries he is visiting and this will be implemented in all forthcoming missions.

- The Special Envoy has also met civil society organisations working on road safety at several other occasions.

- Special Envoy’s contribution at the Second High-Level Global Conference on Road Safety. The Conference brought together approximately 70 ministerial-level government delegations. A declaration was adopted which aims to reaffirm the path set for the UN Decade of Action 2011-2020. UNECE and the Special Envoy jointly hosted a booth in the exhibition area, which promoted visibility first of all for the UN Road Safety conventions; served as a meeting point for bilateral consultations and well-positioned the UN presence in the conference. The Special Envoy was engaged in the ceremonial opening, was a speaker during the opening statements and in a number of panels of the conference and its side events, including the session on UN Road Safety Conventions jointly organised by UNECE and the French government and several civil society events. On the occasion of the Global Conference, the Special Envoy met the President of Brazil and the Minister of Cities. The government of Brazil confirmed its deliberation to join the 1958 Agreement on vehicle regulations.

- The Special Envoy met WHO Director General and agreed on mutual support and strengthened cooperation to support the road safety cause.

- The Special Envoy met Ms. Violeta Bulc, European Commissioner for Transport, and discussed the setting of a serious road injury target by the European Union, deployment of new vehicle safety technologies, and the latest road traffic trends in the EU.

- The Special Envoy met the UNECE Road Safety Forum, i.e. the Inland Transport Committee Working Party on Traffic Safety (WP.1) where he consulted with delegates on major road safety trends and agreed on close cooperation to address them.

- In addition to the regular meetings with UNECE and WHO, the Special Envoy met most of the relevant UN departments and agencies: UN HABITAT, UNDP, UNEP, UNHCR, UNICEF, OCHA, UN AIDS, UNESCO, UNFPA, WFP, UNOPS, UNODC, UNISDR, FAO. He also met several multi-lateral development banks, including the World Bank and the Inter-American Bank.

While the meetings and consultations were numerous in the past period, workshops and seminars to raise awareness will be organized between January and 30 April 2016, with the newly established and operational XB secretariat of the Special Envoy.

_The fourth expected result_ – increased awareness about United Nations road safety legal instruments and road safety best practices - has been achieved through Special Envoy encounters with the Governments, representatives of international organizations and United Nations system organisations, as well as civil society representatives in countries he visited in his capacity as the Secretary-General Special Envoy for Road Safety. For this purpose, for every mission that has been accomplished in the past period, the secretariat prepared a briefing package containing the road safety profile of the country, situation with main road safety legal instruments, specially designed and customized policy messages and other details relevant for the Special Envoy meetings with the officials. UNECE released a report entitled “Together with UNECE on the road to safety” during the Second High Level Global Conference on Road Safety, which highlights key UN Road Safety conventions and recommendations that are needed in order to achieve the goal of cutting road traffic deaths in half by 2020. In addition, the UNECE Road Safety Spectrum, which offers more technical details, was made available.
3. The role of the Secretariat in support of the Special Envoy

UNECE Sustainable Transport Division secretariat has been providing support to the Special Envoy since his appointment, with the understanding that once established, the XB secretariat of the Special Envoy would take over most of the tasks associated with the activities of the Special Envoy. For example, in preparation for his missions to Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Mexico, Peru, Finland, Kenya, Malaysia, Myanmar, Thailand, Uganda, etc., the secretariat prepared briefing notes on road safety situation, management of the road safety system and other relevant information to facilitate the dialogue between the Special Envoy and high-level interlocutors in each country he visited.

The meeting between the Special Envoy and representatives of civil society organized in October 2015, in order to exchange views and ideas regarding Special Envoy’s Action Plan, was also organized by the UNECE secretariat. Thus, in all his initiatives, activities, official appearances at conferences and meetings since his appointment and until December 2015, the UNECE secretariat has been providing the necessary support to the Special Envoy.

The secretariat held regular monthly consultation meetings with the Special Envoy in order to appropriately coordinate, plan and support his planned activities and initiatives. In his written communication with governments, civil society or international organisations, the secretariat has been consulted routinely and advised on the recommended reply. There has been very close and strong collaboration between the secretariat and the Special Envoy.

Moving forward, the newly established secretariat of the Special Envoy will support and prepare the Special Envoy for participation in global and regional conferences and meetings on road safety. Such support includes the information on the United Nations road safety legal instruments in order to assist the Special Envoy in raising awareness on road safety and of promoting improved implementation of these legal instruments by Contracting Parties as well as the accession of those countries who are not yet Contracting Parties. The secretariat also will assist the Special Envoy to implement additional road safety related activities as requested by the Secretary-General.

To ensure that the Special Envoy is briefed on global, regional and national developments in road safety (as may be appropriate) for his public appearances and meetings with policy makers and civil society, the secretariat will maintain a network of communication between the relevant UN departments, organisations as well as entities working on, or having an interest in, road safety.

4. The role of the Secretariat in advising on issues relating to potential conflicts of interest Particular attention has been given to managing and preventing any potential situation where conflict of interest could be manifested.

According to the established practice, activities of all UN Secretary-General’s Envoys are governed by applicable UN rules and best practices, including conflict of interest. Immediately after his appointment as Special Envoy, Mr. Jean Todt was briefed by the UN Ethics Office on how to carry out his roles and responsibilities and avoid potential conflicts of interest. At all times, it is expected that the Special Envoy will carry out his role and responsibilities according to the highest ethical standards of the United Nations.

Both the UN Ethics Office and the UN Secretary-General’s office have noted that there is no inherent conflict of interest in the Special Envoy also continuing to serve as FIA President. The Special Envoy was appointed by the Secretary-General on a US$ 1 per annum contract. Special Envoys are subject to the Organisation's Staff Rules and Staff Regulations. Pursuant to this status, and to avoid potential conflicts of interests, Special Envoys are required inter alia to seek the Secretary-General's approval prior to engaging in any outside activities that relate to the purpose, activities, or interests of the United Nations. Reference: ST/AI/2000/13 and ST/IC/2006/30
Concerning the management of potential conflicts of interest, as senior officials, Special Envoys are additionally required to file financial disclosure or declaration of interest statements on an annual basis. Relevant, disclosure information includes (i) any financial interests and leadership roles they have in non-UN entities; (ii) any relatives employed in the UN; (iii) any involvement in activities which would affect the objectivity and independence required from international civil servants; and (iv), any involvement in activities that could expose the UN to reputational risk.

The UN Ethics Office reviews the disclosed information and advises the Secretary-General on required measures to mitigate and manage any identified possible or actual conflicts of interest. Such measures could include approving disclosed outside interests/activities with caveats (in the event SG approval has not previously been obtained) or requesting the individual to desist from certain activities or to separate from certain entities.

As the Financial Disclosure Programme is an annual exercise, Special Envoys are required to promptly bring to the attention of the Secretary-General any new activities added to their portfolio since the last time they were requested to file a declaration of interest statement.

5. Future plans

In accordance with his Action Plan approved by the Secretary-General, in collaboration with the UNECE and his secretariat, Special Envoy has devised a comprehensive plan of activities and initiatives based on proposed work plan for the period January – April 2016 and beyond. The available amount of funds to be used from January through 30 April 2016 is approximately US$ 553,000 of which US$ 271,000 was rolled over from 2015 Phase I approved budget. It is expected that these funds be sufficient to cover the remaining activities planned in Phase I and any redeployment of funds would be timely requested and reported.

A. Activities planned to be completed in the Phase I (until 30 April 2016)

I. To promote global partnership to support the design and implementation of strategies and activities to improve road safety

To fulfil one of the most important tasks of his original plan, further analysis and descriptions of options for a UN Road Safety Fund is under development and will be provided for consultations as requested by Member States.

In March 2016, the Special Envoy is planning to organise a meeting with heads of UN agencies and departments whose work is relevant for road safety and is in line with the tasks relevant for Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The objective will be to explore new partnerships and ways to collaborate on road safety and SDGs.

II. To advocate with governments, civil society and the private sector for the promotion of road safety, particularly in countries with a high level of road fatalities and injuries

In order to assist developing countries take leaps in road safety advancement, a study will be published to raise awareness on how technological innovations can improve road safety. This study in a form of a report will contain best practice examples around the world and highlight how modern technology can facilitate leapfrogging in road safety performance. The objective is to inspire and support developing countries use modern and appropriate technology, which can help them leap past development stages to reach better road safety performance in a reasonable time and realistic way. The study is planned to be completed by 30 April 2016.

The feasibility of an online course on Road Safety, potentially including the UN Road Safety Conventions will be explored between the Special Envoy, UNECE and UNITAR with due consideration to avoid duplication of on-going projects of UNECE.
III. To participate in global and regional conferences and meetings on road safety

- Tentative mission trips to countries below to promote accession to UN road safety conventions as well as promote multi-sectoral partnerships: China, Malaysia (Follow-up of 2015 visit), South Korea, Mexico (Follow-up of 2015 visit), Australia, India, Russia.

- Planned meetings and conferences:
  - Meeting with His Holiness Pope Francis
  - World Economic Forum: Participation in side event on Importance of Intelligent Transport Systems in road safety
  - UNECE Inland Transport Committee, where the policy segment will be dedicated to “Innovations for Sustainable Inland Transport with Special Attention to Information and Communication Technologies”
  - World Health Organization: High-level stakeholders meeting to develop strategies to achieve the SDGs
  - ITU-UNECE: Fully Networked Car event on the occasion of the Geneva Motor Show
  - Africa Union Road Safety Conference

- Regular consultations will continue to be held with UN Departments and Agencies, particularly the UN Regional Commissions, WHO, UNICEF, as well as Multilateral Development Banks, particularly the World Bank.

IV. To advocate the accession to, and more effective implementation of United Nations road safety legal instruments

To further promote UN road safety legal instruments with member countries, a workshop will be organised jointly with the UNECE Inland Transport Committee (ITC), back-to-back with the annual session of the Committee in February 2016. The workshop will be organised for selected countries with the objective to increase the number of governments familiar with and interested to adopt UN legal instruments on road safety.

B. Activities considered to be carried out in a potential Phase II (from 1 May 2016) or with implementation date somewhat later than 1 May

I. To promote global partnership to support the design and implementation of strategies and activities to improve road safety

The Special Envoy attaches great importance to capacity building in developing countries which the UNECE also shares and supports. By linking Special Envoy activities with the ongoing UNDA project on road safety performance review (in four UN member countries - Albania, Dominican Republic, Georgia, and Vietnam), which is led by UNECE and being implemented in cooperation with ESCAP and ECLAC, the Special Envoy’s budget could sponsor a road safety performance review in further developing countries. UNECE expertise in planning, organising and executing these reviews could then be used for the benefit of additional countries. The other regional commissions that have not been involved in the project due to limited budget have already indicated their interest to join if funding allows. Countries from Africa have been particularly vocal about their wish to undertake a road safety performance review combined with targeted capacity building. The project period would be from January 2016 to November 2017 with midterm results to be reported in December 2016.

In the second half of 2016, Special Envoy secretariat will organise a policy dialogue and awareness raising event in the form of roundtable with one to three target countries. This national or regional roundtable will aim to increase understanding about the importance of more rigorous road safety policies.
II. To advocate with governments, civil society and the private sector for the promotion of road safety, particularly in countries with a high level of road fatalities and injuries

Another, specific area of concern of the Special Envoy is road safety of school children, as they are amongst the most vulnerable to road injuries and require targeted interventions. To this end, and based on so far UNECE activities and linked to the debates in the framework of the Inland transport Committee WP.1 two reports will be developed, on best practices for road safety measures for children travelling to and from school as well as another on guidelines for renting busses/coaches for transportation of school children. The reports will promote best practices and suggest solutions for children travelling to and from their schools as well as during school fieldtrips. In addition to knowledge creation and sharing, the possible outcome of such reports is an ITC Resolution to be adopted in 2017. The reports are planned to be completed by October 2016. Both through the Inland Transport Committee WP.1 members and also through direct contacts by the Special Envoy’s XB secretariat the reports are expected to benefit from a wide range of stakeholders, governments, UN agencies, such as UNICEF, WHO, as well as with civil societies.

As part of a potential Phase II an additional Multi-stakeholder consultation with civil society would be hosted in the autumn of 2016, in cooperation with other UN Departments, particularly the Regional Commissions, and with UN Agencies, especially WHO, UNICEF, UN-Habitat etc.

III. To participate in global and regional conferences and meetings on road safety

- Tentative mission trips to the following countries to promote road safety policies in line with the UN road safety conventions as well as promote multi-sectoral partnerships for road safety actions: Algeria, Bahrain, Azerbaijan, Paraguay, Argentina, Chile, Brazil, Jamaica, Antigua and Barbuda, Ethiopia, China (follow up from early 2016 meeting), Philippines, Ecuador. To forge partnerships and further support to road safety cooperation trips are also planned to United States (Texas), Brussels, Austria, Slovakia, Finland.

- Participation in a number of major conferences and events are planned and listed earlier.

IV. To advocate the accession to, and more effective implementation of United Nations road safety legal instruments

To foster advocacy for UN Road Safety Conventions and Standards, which is one of the main tasks of the Special Envoy, a special brochure will be produced. This brochure will express the Special Envoy’s position on UN Road Safety conventions and present his personal view, thus facilitating his communication and interaction with governments as well as decision- and policy-makers. Furthermore, a series of leaflets on specific UN Road Safety rules and regulations also presenting Special Envoy’s position on speeding, drink and drive, child restraints, seat belts, motorcycle helmets, vehicle safety and infrastructure safety. This brochure and the leaflets will be produced in the period January – August 2016, targeting one leaflet per month. It is also foreseen to be linked to the relevant UNECE publications.

To promote road safety within the UN system of organisation, Special Envoy is planning to undertake a series of activities and contacts. He intends to continue sharing his reports to the Secretary-General with EXCOM to ensure full transparency on his completed and planned activities. He will also attend the UNOG Executive Briefing which will be organised with the objective of informing the heads of UN bodies in Geneva about his road safety related activities.

Part of Phase II of the project has envisaged recruitment of an additional P-3 staff. However, considering the past experience with lengthy recruitment procedures, UNECE requests approval from EXCOM in January 2016 to begin advertising and recruiting for the P3 staff, so that the new staff becomes operational as of May 2016, with the launch of Phase II.
II. Report of the Special Envoy to the Secretary General containing his activities in the period April – December 2015
APPOINTMENT AND ACTIVITIES OF THE UNITED NATIONS SECRETARY GENERAL’S SPECIAL ENVOY FOR ROAD SAFETY JEAN TODT

APRIL - DECEMBER 2015
INTRODUCTION

CONTEXT: THE GLOBAL ROAD SAFETY CHALLENGE

• Every year, some 1.25 million people are killed and up to 50 million people are injured on the world’s roads. Half of all road traffic deaths are among vulnerable road users such as pedestrians, cyclists and motorcyclists. Road traffic deaths are also the leading cause of death for young people aged 15-29, and road traffic injuries are the eighth leading cause of death globally.

• Beyond human suffering, road traffic deaths and injuries impose significant economic and financial losses to societies. In 2010, the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed a Decade of Action for Road Safety («Decade»). The goal of the Decade (2011-2020) is to stabilize and then reduce the forecast level of road traffic deaths around the world.

• The Decade reaches its mid-term review this year (2015) with little observed change in the number of global annual road traffic deaths.

• With motorization rates rising rapidly around the world corresponding to economic growth, especially in low- and middle-income countries, it is timely and imperative for all countries now to make tangible progress in improving the safety of their roads if they have not yet started to do so, and to further improve their road safety record.

- The Special Envoy will help mobilize sustained political commitment towards making road safety a priority; to advocate and raise awareness about the United Nations road safety legal instruments; share established road safety good practices; and generate adequate funding for advocacy efforts through strategic partnerships between the public, private and non-governmental sectors.
- UNECE will act as the secretariat for the Special Envoy for Road Safety.

THE UN SPECIAL ENVOY FOR ROAD SAFETY’S TERMS OF REFERENCE:

In making this appointment, the Secretary-General has determined that the specific functions of the Special Envoy will be:

- PROMOTING A GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP TO SUPPORT THE DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION OF STRATEGIES AND ACTIVITIES TO IMPROVE ROAD SAFETY

The Special Envoy will support the attainment of the overall goal of the Decade, by leveraging his or her professional expertise and experience. In this regard, the Special Envoy is expected to develop a global partnership with a particular emphasis on raising levels of political commitment. The Special Envoy will work with key funding partners – including governments, financial institutions and the private and non-governmental sectors – to secure adequate resources to implement the global partnership strategy.

- ADVOCATING WITH GOVERNMENTS, CIVIL SOCIETY AND THE PRIVATE SECTOR FOR THE PROMOTION OF ROAD SAFETY, PARTICULARLY IN COUNTRIES WITH HIGH LEVEL OF ROAD FATALITIES AND INJURIES

The Special Envoy will advocate for road safety, identifying achievements and challenges at the global, regional and national levels, as appropriate. He or she will highlight the challenges and needs for technical and/or other assistance which may be required, particularly by low- and middle-income countries, to improve road safety.

- PARTICIPATING IN GLOBAL AND REGIONAL CONFERENCES AND MEETINGS ON ROAD SAFETY

The Special Envoy will participate in global and regional conferences on road safety, including the second high-level global conference on road safety to be held in November 2015 in Brasilia, Brazil. - ADVOCATING THE ACCESSION TO, AND MORE EFFECTIVE IMPLEMENTATION OF, UNITED NATIONS ROAD SAFETY LEGAL INSTRUMENTS

The Special Envoy will raise the visibility and awareness of the United Nations road safety legal instruments, including the Conventions on Road Traffic, and Road Signs and Signals, and the 1958, 1997 and 1998 Vehicle Regulations Agreements as well as other related instruments including driving times and rest periods for professional drivers and transport of dangerous goods. The Special Envoy will also promote the accession to and the improved implementation of these legal instruments by Contracting Parties.

What follows is an account of the Special Envoy’s visits, speaking engagements and meetings to fulfil these functions.
OPEN LETTER FROM THE SPECIAL ENVOY FOR ROAD SAFETY

3 July 2015

I am sincerely committed to working constructively and inclusively with all stakeholders, to the benefit of all road users, in an effort to generate additional, stronger momentum and ensure the needed support to address the horrific consequences that road crashes continue to have on the lives of so many around the world today.

In my capacity as a Special Envoy I will convey the key messages that will be developed under the auspices of the United Nations and, hopefully, with a contribution from all stakeholders in the road safety community. In this way I wish to contribute to the work of the many highly dedicated practitioners who have relentlessly been working over years to deliver solutions to improve global road safety. I am convinced that a change in the enabling environment is possible, but for this the road safety issue must be brought to the forefront of the development agenda of world leaders.

As a starting point, I welcome that road safety is explicitly reflected in the proposed United Nations’ Sustainable Development Goals which are to be agreed at the forthcoming UN General Assembly in September this year. I am committed to working decisively towards ensuring that this target remains in the final document and will spare no efforts to ensure it is achieved.

It will be imperative that the Second Global High-Level Conference on Road Safety, which will take place later this year in Brazil, achieves agreement on clear and measurable outcomes. To this end, I am committed to generate strong and unified support by the entire road safety community and all others who are concerned about road safety, to ensure that governments agree on specific measures to tackle this challenge.

My tasks agreed with the Secretary-General are to help mobilise sustained political commitment for road safety; to advocate and raise awareness about the United Nations road safety legal instruments; and to support sharing of good practices through participation in relevant global and regional conferences. I have also been asked to generate funding, possibly through a UN Road Safety Fund and the building of strategic partnerships between the public, private, non-governmental sectors and the United Nations. In the coming months, I will launch a new initiative to meet this goal with the backing of political and business leaders.

I very much look forward to working in a positive and constructive atmosphere together with you in order to jointly confront this global crisis. I believe we need a strong and united road safety coalition to generate and maintain strong momentum both towards reaching the goals of the UN Decade of Action for Road Safety and doing so in a sustainable way looking at the horizon of 2030. In this spirit, the world I want is one without road fatalities and injuries and for that we must achieve a drastic reduction of road crashes.
