

The Russian Federation has switched to the registration of electronic communication for type approval

During the pandemic period and to implement measures to prevent the spread of a new coronavirus infection (COVID-2019), the national type-approval authority of the Russian Federation - The Federal Agency on Technical Regulating and Metrology, made decisions that allow to ensuring the continuity of conformity assessment procedures, such as:

- registration of type approval communications in electronic format and signing with a qualified digital signature. Following the approved procedure, signed documents are placed in the electronic database «DETA».
 - transition to electronic registration of national documents for type approval of the Eurasian Economic Union.
